

Activities News Blast Feb 1st, 2023

Every February 2 we look to a groundhog called Punxsutawney Phil to forecast how much longer winter will last. The tradition has been carried out in Pennsylvania for 132 years. Records dating to 1887 show that Punxsutawney Phil has predicted winter 103 times, while forecasting an early spring just 18 times. The prediction is often wrong.

Groundhog Puxatawney Phil 'wanted for deception' after spring fails to arrive, the criminal has 'brown and grey hair, brown eyes, sharp teeth', says sheriff's poster. It appears the Puxatawney Phil goes into hiding each year after his forecast, and as of today's date no arrests have been made.
